

Lesson 16

Explaining Features and Benefits

Warm-Up

What do you think makes today's smartphones appealing to consumers? What are three qualities that people consider when purchasing a smartphone?

Video

How Batteries Help Sell a Smartphone

Video Analysis:

1. What phone brand is featured in this video?
2. What features make it one of the best smartphones in the world?
3. What makes this phone brand unique?
4. How important is this phone feature to you?
5. Would you buy this product?

Discussion Question:

What phone feature do you consider a selling point in today's market?

Role-Play

Scenario: Alex and Jamie are talking about their phones. Study how their phone features compete and what makes it better than the other.*

Alex: Hey Jamie, check out my new Infinix phone! The battery life is insane.

Jamie: Really? That's awesome! My new phone's display is also amazing. I feel like I'm watching movies in 4K.

Alex: Cool! That's really a gem. But I wonder how long it could last in a day.

Jamie: That's the sad part. The display feature stands out, but the battery disappoints.

Alex: Oh no, with this new phone—I charged it once, and it lasted five days. That's its main selling point.

Jamie: Wow, that's impressive. My tablet can't even last through a whole season of my favorite show without a recharge.

Alex: Haha, it's like having a power bank built into my phone.

Jamie: That's so cool. Let me finish what I'm watching now. Bye!

Role-play Analysis

1. What gadget are Alex and Jamie talking about?
2. What features on their phones are doing great?
3. What makes Alex's phone better than Jamie's?
4. How long can Alex's phone battery last?
5. Which features of a phone do you think are more important?

Discussion

What phone features have evolved over time? What new changes do you think will happen in the future?

Key Vocabulary

Word/Phrase	Use	Example
Highlight key features	Focus on the best point	To be able to understand the major features of this product – let me highlight key features about its greatness.
Demonstrate value	To show great importance	The key features of the solar panel demonstrate value in this seminar.
You benefit from	To get something good	Durability is something you'll benefit from when you buy quality product.
Competitive advantage	Product edge that is better from someone	Cheaper prices give this product a competitive advantage.
Unique selling point	Feature of a product that others do not have	This gadget can be downloaded in any operating system, and this is its unique selling point.
Tailor to customer needs	To give benefits that match customer preference	It is important to create a software that tailors to customer needs.
Emphasize benefits	Focus on the best feature	The salesman emphasized the most important benefit in the pitch
One key benefit	One good area of the feature	Two year warranty is one of the key benefits of this membership
The main advantage	The quality that is above others	The main advantage of my item is the 60 percent off sale price

Practice

EXPLAINING GREAT FEATURES OF YOUR NEW PRODUCT

Instructions:

- Choose a product — real or imaginary — that you want to promote. It can be a phone, app, gadget, tool, or service.
- Complete the outline below by filling in each blank with specific information about your product. Think about what makes it attractive to buyers.
- Use the examples as a guide for building strong, persuasive sentences about your product's features.

Step 1: Describe Benefit 1: _____	Example: What makes my _____ so outstanding for consumers is its _____
Step 2: Describe Benefit 2: _____	Example: The next competitive advantage of buying our product is its _____
Step 3: Describe Benefit 3: _____	Example: The most unique selling point of this item is its _____

Production

MINI-PRESENTATION

Deliver a short, persuasive presentation (1–2 minutes) about your product, focusing on its features and benefits.

1. Use the outline from the previous activity (Explaining Great Features) to prepare your talking points. Focus on 3 key benefits or selling points.
2. Plan your presentation structure:
 - Introduction – Name your product and give a short background.
 - Body – Explain 3 main benefits clearly and persuasively.
 - Closing – End with a strong sentence that encourages interest or action (e.g., "That's why our product is a smart choice today").

Use transitions words to organize the sequence of your presentation.	Example: Hello, my name is _____, and today I'm excited to present our latest product: the _____. I will highlight the key features that set this item apart. First, _____. Second, _____. Finally, _____. These exceptional qualities make our product a smart choice for you today. Thank you for listening to my presentation. I hope my ideas have impressed you.
--	---

Homework

Reply to an email proposal about a great feature of your new product. Make sure to outline (3) great features about your new product. Complete the outline and submit it next week.

Email Subject:	Attention: Business English 101 My New Project Proposal: _____
Message:	Dear Students, Good morning. Please complete the short outline written below regarding your new Product. Ensure to search 3 great benefits about this product. Thanks, Prof. Nelson
Project Instructions:	OUTLINE FOR MY BUSINESS PRESENTATION Topic: "The Next Best Thing" Goals: 1. Introduce a business product to the consumers 2. Prepare an outline that will highlight 3 great features of your new business product. 3. Present business ideas with clarity CRITERIA FOR MARKING YOUR PRESENTATION: 1. Business Features 2. Creativity 3. Benefit 4. Confidence in presenting 5. Clarity in Speaking Total Marks

MY OUTLINE	Product:

	3 Great Features:
	1. _____
	2. _____
	3. _____